

Mixed Feelings on Proposed Tax Increases

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Arkansas lawmakers view with mixed feelings a state Highway Commission request for almost eight million dollars more in highway revenues annually.

The additional money hinges on tax increases—a potential sore spot in the 1959 General Assembly. The commission revealed its proposals yesterday as the Arkansas Legislative Council heard a backlog of budget requests.

It apparently caught legislators by surprise. Some said they would not comment until they examined the proposal closer. Others said immediately they were opposed.

Glenn F. Wallace of Nashville, chairman of the highway commission, said $7,700,000 a year is needed to take advantage of federal matching funds.

To raise the money, Wallace suggested the Legislature:

1. Increase the state gasoline tax from 6.5 cents to 7 cents.
2. Increase the registration fees of all passenger vehicles.
3. Charge more for license fees on various classes of trucks.
4. Revise a Natural Resources registration by limiting the entrance taxes to lighter vehicles.
5. Eliminate the existing border tax rate exemption on motor fuels.
6. Abolish the existing overweight tolerance of 1,000 pounds and set up high penalties and strict enforcement.
7. Increase by 1 cent a gallon the tax on diesel fuels.

Chances for passage of such proposals was viewed as slim by Rep. Carroll Hollensworth of Bradley County and Sen. Jack Shelton of Monticello.

"I personally couldn't vote for any tax increase two sessions in a row," Shelton said, referring to the additional levies passed by the 1957 Legislature.

Wallace revealed his proposal in a letter to Rep. Marcus J. Howell of Phillips County, chairman of the Legislative Council's committee on revenue and taxation. The letter included other minor tax changes.

The council itself did not consider the matter. It did hear the state Highway Department's budget request but took no action on it. The highway agency said it expected to build at least 500 miles of highways between July 1, 1959, and June 30, 1961.

That figure was contained in a revised budget submitted at the council's request. Council members began hearing the budget Oct. 31 but asked the department to include more information on how the money would be spent.

The budget calls for $33,956,979 in 1959-60 and $50,057,000 in 1960-61.

Council members spent yesterday catching up on budget recommendations that stacked up during the six weeks of hearings.

The council voted to recommend a job analyst be hired to determine whether there are job duplications and salary inequities in the state government.

"Concern has been expressed several times during the series of hearings at apparent discrepancies in jobs and salaries."

The General Assembly will be asked to add the analyst to the council's staff at a salary of $9,000 a year.

In other action, the council:

1. Approved $594,000 a year for the Weights and Standards Division of the State Police. The division asked for $788,265.
2. Approved pay raises for state Forestry Commission employees in a budget of $1,695,000 for 1959-60 and $1,644,000 for 1960-61.
3. Approved $128,600 a year for the Legislative Audit staff, the same as the current appropriation.
4. Approved $35,350 a year for the Social Security and Retirement Division. The division's current budget is $44,025.
5. Approved $81,200 a year for its own operation.
6. Approved $191,900 a year for the Administrative and Budget Division of the state Comptroller's office, including annual salary raises for Comptroller Kelly Cornett, from $9,000 to $9,600, and Budget Director Julian Hegan, from $8,200 to $8,500.

These funds were approved as submitted:

County Aid, $10,350,221.05 a year; Municipal Aid, $7,571,000 a year; debt service on highway bonds refunded in 1941, $7,104,855 a year; debt service on highway bonds issued in 1949-51, $1,204,884.35 in 1959-60 and $1,593,293.25 in 1960-61; investment of state funds, $14,600,000 for the biennium; Employment Security Division building $100,000 for maintenance and debt service, and Industrial Development Commission revolving fund, $175,000 a year.

Grade School Fire Hazard, L. R. Is Told

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A Little Rock fire inspector said today he had advised city officials that a public elementary school here was extremely dangerous from the standpoint of a fire hazard.

Inspector V. C. Throckmorton said pupils should be moved to other quarters at once. He would not identify the school.

Throckmorton added that on the whole, conditions at Little Rock were none too good. Only three of 40 school buildings in the city have proper safeguards, he said.

Meanwhile the state fire marshal said that on a statewide basis, Arkansas schools were "in pretty good shape."

State Police Sgt. Bill Strubbing, the marshal, said only two schools had been condemned as fire hazards in the past three years.

One of these was a grade school at Newark which later was replaced by a modern structure, he said. Details on the other schools were not available immediately but Strubbing said corrective ac-

Thanksgiving Death Toll 454

CHICAGO (AP)—Thanksgiving holiday traffic claimed 454 lives between 8 p.m. (local time) Wednesday and midnight Sunday.

The figure, though impressive, was about par for any 102-hour period when figured against 38,500 traffic fatalities in the nation last year.

The Associated Press count showed 626 dead from all types of lion was taken.

Throckmorton said he also had warned a private elementary school here that a fire hazard existed. He would not identify this school, either.

The inspector said the three Little Rock schools which had proper safeguards were Gibbs, Centennial and Capital Hill Elementary Schools.

He said Gibbs has a sprinkler system, which he believes to be the only one in an Arkansas school. Centennial and Capital Hill have fire detection alarm systems.

No such devices exist at other city schools, the inspector said.

Throckmorton said he did not blame school officials for the situation, but added that steps should be taken at once to correct it.

Presumably any action on public schools would have to await election of a new school board Saturday.

Suggests Hays as Democratic Vice-President

WASHINGTON (AP)—The editor of a Baptist Church publication suggested today that the Democratic Party seriously consider Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark) for its 1960 vice presidential nomination.

The Rev. James O. Duncan drew a parallel between Hays, whose moderate views on segregation contributed to his defeat by a write-in candidate last month, and Abraham Lincoln.

Duncan noted that Lincoln lost a U. S. Senate race to Stephen Douglas in 1858, just 100 years ago. "Because he dared to stand on principle rather than on what was popular," two years later Lincoln was elected president, Duncan said, and added:

"Since it is very unlikely that a Southerner would be considered as a presidential candidate, would it not be wise to have the next highest office filled by a man who knows and loves the South—a man who understands the problems that exist there—yet one who has complete devotion and allegiance to the whole nation?"

Asked for comment, Hays replied:

"I am not a candidate for vice president or any other office."

As he has before, he said that he has no political ambitions and plans to devote his current energies to his work as president of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Hays said that although he appreciates the churchmen's sentiments, his political thoughts would disrupt his current activities.

Hays a House member for 16 years, lost his seat last month to Dr. Dale Alford, an ardent segregationist member of the Little Rock School Board.

Student Sentenced for Stealing Mail

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—An Arkansas AM&N student was sentenced yesterday to a year and a day in prison after he pleaded guilty to stealing mail from the campus post office and forging a check he obtained from one of the letters.

The student, Sterling M. McClellan, a 21-year-old Negro, also was placed on three years probation after he is released from prison.

Sentence was passed by Judge Axel J. Beck in U.S. District Court here.

McClellan and James Watson Jr., 19, also a Negro, were charged by postal inspectors Nov. 7. The inspectors said yesterday the two took letters containing checks and money orders from post office boxes which either had broken locks or were left unlocked. Watson is serving a three-year term in the Arkansas State Penitentiary on another forged check.

The postal inspectors said McClellan got between $300 and $400 since May by forging the checks and money orders. They said Watson got at least $100.

Daisy Has Habit of Pulling This

WEST ORANGE, N. J. (AP)—Police Sgt. Thomas McDonald and a duck named Daisy have held their second annual disaster clinic on Vincent Pond, spontaneous and unheeded.

Daisy, as she did last year, spent the night on the pond's frozen surface after it proved too slippery for her to walk back to shore.

McDonald and Andrew Olson, Daisy's youthful owner, finally got the duck back with the aid of weighted ropes and a cornmeal lure.

"Not again," was McDonald's only comment when he saw the land-loving duck's predicament. After Monday's rescue, the sedate Daisy went home with Olson.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Baseball magnates today formed an angry united front against the major league players' bid for a cut in the owners' income and minor leagues' demands for a pension plan.

The big league players, already bulwarked by a pension plan supported by World Series radio and television money, jolted their employers Tuesday with a salary proposal calling for 20 per cent of each club's gross revenue.

Will Support Move to Cut Filibuster

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Everett Dirksen (R-Ill) announced today he will support efforts to modify the Senate's filibuster rule.

The rule now requires the votes of 64 senators to shut off debate, and the number rises to 66 when Alaska's two senators are seated.

Some senators are demanding a rules change to make it easier to end filibusters.

Dirksen, who is in line to become the Senate's new Republican leader, said in an interview that he has changed his mind since he voted in 1957 against opening the Senate's rules to change.

He now has come to the conclusion, Dirksen said, that Vice President Nixon had "logic on his side" in holding informally then that new rules can be adopted by majority vote at the beginning of each Congress.

His change of position lent added weight to a drive by Senate liberals to alter the filibuster provision.

Three of these, Senators Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill), Clifford P. Case (R-NJ) and Jacob K. Javits (R-NY), told a news conference Tuesday they are not going to make any deals in their fight to curb debate by a majority vote.

They have contended that if the present rule is permitted to stand, it will be impossible to pass additional civil rights legislation.

Sen. A. Willis Robertson (D-Va) has said that Southern senators would consider a compromise by which two thirds of those voting instead of the present two thirds of all the senators could close debate, so long as it was established that the Senate carries over its rules from one Congress to another.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas has proposed such a compromise but Douglas, Case and Javits said it would not be acceptable to them.

On the other side, Sen. Strom Thurmond (D-SC) forecast "a long, strenuous, vicious and sacrificial fight" against any change in the present rule.

On the other side, Sen. Strom Thurmond (D-SC) forecast "a long, strenuous, vicious and sacrificial fight" against any change in the present rule.

Sen. A. Willis Robertson (D-Va) has said that Southern senators would consider a compromise by which two thirds of those voting instead of the present two thirds of all the senators could close debate, so long as it was established that the Senate carries over its rules from one Congress to another.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas has proposed such a compromise but Douglas, Case and Javits said it would not be acceptable to them.

PANAMA (AP)—A bill to extend Panama's territorial waters to 12 miles offshore has been introduced in the National Assembly with wide support.

The measure also would extend Panamanian sovereignty to the air space over nine-mile strips of Caribbean and Pacific water.

Extension of Panamanian sovereignty would create corridors hemming in access to the canal, although the bill guarantees the right of innocent passage to foreign ships using the canal.

LONDON (AP)—For 33 years Mrs. Fanny Martin had a spotless backseat driving record. Until Monday.

Then husband Maurice, 55, a grocer, was fined a pound ($2.80) for ignoring a policeman's signal to stop.

"It's all Fanny's fault," he told the judge.

"As soon as we start to move, she's off. Watch out. Be careful. Mind that cyclist. Slow down."

It was the nagging, he said, that caused him to miss the signal.

TOKYO (AP)—Communist North Korea and North Viet Nam demanded today that the United States pull its troops out of South Korea, Japan and the Formosa Strait and stop interference in South Viet Nam.

They charged in a joint communique that American was blocking peaceful unification of both Viet Nam and Korea.

SUVA, Fiji (AP)—Ships sped to shelter today as the first hurricane to hit Fiji since 1953 destroyed houses and blew down the power lines.

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—About 54 planes to present and incoming county judges tomorrow and Friday by the Welfare Department at Little Rock.

Approximately half the officials will attend each session. Adams said the primary purpose is to familiarize the judges with a few minor changes in administration of the food program.

THE STORY: Hope and Adam met in a garden, fell in love and were married. But after 10 years, Hope feels that there is a lack between herself and her husband.

Chapter III

Den having returned before Adam and Hope went on holiday, Adam went to see Marty.

"We were sorry you couldn't make it last weekend," he said. "I'll miss you, Marty."

He hadn't meant to say that and it wasn't until he had that he perceived it was true.

"I'll miss you."

"They'd been talking over an hour, about nothing particular, nor personal. No matter what was said, it was restorative to talk with Marty."

He told her, "Until this summer I hadn't known you very well."

"No."

He said uneasily, driven to candor. "You give me something, Marty, don't you know what, exactly. But I'm grateful."

That was it. She gave as involuntarily as she breathed. This was something he hadn't known before. No, that wasn't it, precisely. He had known it, but always complicated by other factors; with, for instance, his father, as part of their relationship; with a few men whom he liked — the easy give and easy take. Never with a woman.

He was grateful beyond expression and yet so grieved that it was not Hope. It was not Hope's fault, it was no one's fault; merely, in their communication this had been lacking and he had not recognized it.

He hoped she never would.

"What's wrong?" asked Marty, coming closer.

"Nothing," he said, and smiled. "I must go now, Marty. We'll see you when we get back."

He could not look far down on her; without thinking, he put out his arms around her with quiet love, kissed her gently, and was instantly astonished at a response he had neither anticipated nor wished.

"Marty?" he asked, as response is response wherever you find it and the quiet filled with the voice of curiosity.

She smiled and stood away. "No, that wasn't for you, Adam, and you don't want it. You have everything you want."

He said, "Yes."

She said, "I know exactly what I've given you—what I have to give. And not to you alone. There is a need in you, Adam." She looked at him with compassion, loving yet impersonal. She said, "It wouldn't be difficult to use you for a need within myself, which was never met. Or at least to try . . . But it isn't what you need or want."

Adam returned to his wife and found her packing furiously, throwing things about. She was always clean and fresh as a spring morning; she despised disorder, but was not orderly.

"What exactly are you doing?" he inquired from the doorway, and she went swiftly toward him; he held her and Jupiter shrugged his Titan shoulders and sought consolation in Mrs. Riggs.

"Darling," said Hope, "I am packing."

"With an egg beater?"

"Somehow, it always resolves itself," she said complacently, and he slapped her small bottom and asked, "How about dinner?"

"I need 10 minutes. Make it 15."

Mrs. Riggs, in the kitchen, was making clatterings. The dishwasher would soon revolve. Adam picked up his cup and set it down. He said, "I kissed her goodbye."

"Naturally," said Hope. He had kissed many women in her presence; the bright and garrulous who came and went in this house and to whose houses they went. She had kissed men, as he watched, turning her cheek or glancing her mouth over theirs. She did so because, as the stupidly goes, one does.

He said, not lightly, "I'm grateful to Marty, Hope. Not only because she's sticking as a constant partner. She's easy to talk to—not that I've ever talked much to her about anything important. But she has a quiet about her."

Hope nodded. She thought, Which I haven't, for him. She could not express how or why she knew.

She smiled and he said, "Now you're being provocative."

She hadn't meant to be, but knew in her blind wisdom that provocation was always there.

Not with Marty. With Marty Adam could talk without provocation.

"You can talk to Marty, Marty can talk to you. I can talk to Marty. Marty can talk to me. But I can't talk to you, Susie."

She felt the tears constricting her throat. She spoke above them and they did not rise as far as her questioning eyes. She had never used this weapon against Adam. She rarely cried, except from happiness or sometimes after love, and that was never in sorrow no matter what the ancient Romans did. When the baby hadn't been born, she had wept for weakness and because she feared that Adam would mind, and when her mother died, she had cried, because she loved her so, because of death itself. Now and then she cried, with storm, from anger.

"But you do," she said, "you can, you can."

"Not without—" It was hard to say, for there weren't any words. He tried again. "Not without being conscious of you," he said finally. "I don't expect you to understand that. And it isn't what it sounds like on the surface."

She said humbly, "I'll try to understand."

Tells of Payoff to Union Leader

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carl L. Burrows, a Wichita, Kan., industrialist, swore today his firm made payoffs totaling $27,000 to Arthur Cronin, vice president of the Sheet Metal Workers Union to solve some labor problems.

Burrows, manager of the Midwest Division of the Coleman Co., told the Senate Select Committee investigating Committee $5,000 of the money later was returned.

Burrows' testimony opened public hearings in which the special investigating committee will explore alleged extortion and payoff schemes involving Sheet Metal Workers and a dozen Midwest employers, mainly in the Chicago area.

Cronin under subpoena, is to be called to the witness stand later.

Burrows testified that the payments to Cronin started in 1952 in an effort "to correct our problem" with the union. He said he personally handed over the first $2,000 to Cronin at a rendezvous on a Chicago street.

The Coleman Co., manufacturing such things as air-conditioning equipment, had run into trouble with Cronin's union, he said, because its employees belonged to an independent union, the National Appliance Workers.

Brush Fire in California Burns Homes

MALIBU BEACH, Calif. (AP)—A wind-lashed fire has cut an eight-mile-wide swath from the mountains to the sea here but a massed battery of pumps, virtually one to a house, today checked a threat to the famed film colony.

Elsewhere, flames 100 feet high roared on unchecked.

The blaze, driven by 30 m.p.h. winds, has destroyed an estimated 36 homes.

Hundreds of residents have fled the area.

The fire, perhaps set by an arsonist, burst out Tuesday on the brush and oak-studded inland slopes of the Santa Monica Mountains. The winds quickly whipped it over the crest of the hills and down canyons to the sea.

"The situation doesn't look too promising anywhere," John Barton, assistant county fire chief said today.

The Pacific Highway of which was blocked on either side of the fire zone. The highway, a main north-south route between Los Angeles and San Francisco, runs east and west along the coastline at this point.

The Malibu Beach film colony is on the ocean side of the highway. The flames jumped across the highway but the intensive efforts of firemen and their pumps and residents with garden hoses checked the threat.

Firemen battled to keep the blaze out of Malibu Canyon, but lost the fight just before dawn when flames 100 feet high roared over the top of the last ridge and bore down on the homes half a mile below.

The fire has already destroyed several expensive homes, among them the $80,000 hilltop house of actor Lew Ayres.

Property on ranches owned by actors Ronald Reagan and Bob Hope was damaged. Actor Glen Ford evacuated his flame-threatened ranch, trucking out several head of prize cattle with him.

The famed film colony of Malibu Beach lay only a mile from the leaping flames and residents stood by through the night playing water on their homes. One of them was actor Jackie Coogan, who canceled a television appearance Tuesday night to watch over his house.

Fire officials said the blaze may be worse than the mammoth Malibu fire two years ago that burned for five days, blackening 42,000 acres and destroying 39 homes. Some of the same ground is being burned over now, but most of the fire is in the hills running down to the picturesque seashore about 20 miles from Los Angeles.

Eight firemen were burned when a sudden wind shift sent the blaze roaring back at them. They fought through to safety but were hospitalized with first-degree burns on their faces and hands.

Evacuation centers were set up in three schools along the ocean side of the hills. More than 150 persons were bedded down in them.

"This thing has gone crazy," said County Fire Chief Keith Klinger, who is directing more than 1,000 men on the fire lines.

A prolonged dry spell that left hillside brush bone-dry, a sudden rise in the wind, and a spark from an unknown source, combined to touch off the fire at noon Tuesday along a main highway eight miles inland from the Pacific.

The possibility that an arsonist set the fire is being investigated.

Wants Rating for Arkansas State

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A delegation from the Jonesboro Chamber of Commerce arrived here today to work out plans for a campaign to get Arkansas State College a university rating.

A spokesman for the group said, "We think we deserve the recognition as a university. We already have a university and all we want now is the name."

The delegation announced plans for a dinner here Jan. 14 for Gov. Orval Faubus and members of the Arkansas Legislature.

Legislative action would be required to change the school name to Arkansas State University.

The spokesman added, "We want to take nothing away from the University of Arkansas. Studies show that we will have 5,000 students by 1965 and the University of Arkansas will have about 10,000."

Dr. Carl Beng, president of the Jonesboro school, was in the group, described as a Chamber of Commerce delegation that allowed some members of the college to accompany it.

Roy Fegley, manager of the Jonesboro Chamber, was in charge of the delegation.

Faces Murder Charge in Death of Worker

WEST MEMPHIS, Ark. (AP)—Jesse Williams, a Negro, faces a murder charge in the death of a fellow employee at a warehouse here Saturday.

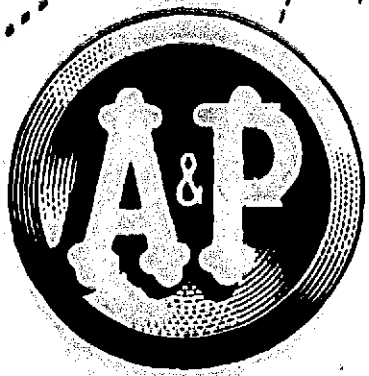

Williams is accused of slaying Fletcher Drane, a 32-year-old Negro night watchman. Drane's mutilated body was found at the Chetlaw, Inc. warehouse where he worked.

Police Chief Bud Holland said Drane had been beaten and then crushed by a fork lift truck.

Williams was arrested Monday. He was charged with manslaughter at a preliminary hearing last Dec. 8 in municipal court, where he is charged with murder.

New Obstacles Face Rights Commission

By REX THOMAS
MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — New obstacles foreshadowing a possible clash between state and federal courts stood in the path of the Civil Rights Commission today as it sought access to registration records for next week's hearing on Negro voting.

The new federal agency's first public hearing since its creation by Congress more than a year ago opens here Monday.

Resistance in one form or another threatened, meanwhile, to keep the contested voter registration files out of the commission's hands unless it gets a federal court order to produce them.

In two of the three counties, a federal judge, if asked to order local officials to surrender the voting records, would find his authority challenged by that of a state court.

All existing registration files in Barbour and Bullock counties, where Negroes outnumber white residents, have been impounded by Circuit Judge George Wallace, the same jurist who once threatened to jail any federal agent attempting to investigate jury rolls in his court.

Wallace took custody of the records in both counties on almost identical petitions asking for grand jury investigations.

The petitions charged that unqualified voters have been registered in Barbour County by misrepresenting themselves to the Board of Registrars, and that others tried unsuccessfully to register as voters in Bullock County by the use of fraud.

Civil rights agents, since their arrival here last weekend, also subpoenaed the files of the Marion County Board of Registrars, which refused last month to surrender them willingly.

Hall Spends Much Time Underwater

By VERNON SCOTT
Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Water logged Jan Hall came up for air today to announce his new TV series, "Malolo of the Seven Seas," in which he will spend more time in, on and under the ocean than a school of salmon.

When he's not working on the filmed show Jan is under water perfecting his closed-circuit submerged TV cameras, or skindiving just for the heck of it.

This would tend to make most actors somewhat soggy. But not Jan.

"I spend almost as much time under water as I do topside," he boasted. "And I love every minute of it."

The entire country is going under water. There are more than 10 million skin-divers and at least another 10 million people involved in boating and other water sports.

Jan figures to capitalize on the national craze with his TV show, and his Sampson Hall Co., which turns out expensive under water television gear. Hall's TV gimmick includes a camera, control panel and standard television monitor.

Get Perfected

"You lower the camera to any depth you want," he explained, "adjust the right knobs and then time in the receiver. You get a 16-foot picture of the bottom of the sea all the while the plant and fish life is right there for the viewer to study at his leisure."

"So far we've only sold 200 sets, but the industry is young and growing."

"The outfits are great for treasure hunting, studying oceanography, navigation and exploring old wrecks."

"Cameras can be sent down to any depth, complete with lights. Skin-divers are limited to 200 feet at best."

Hall, who was raised on the island of Tahiti, has been skin-diving for 35 years. He says diving is safer than driving the Hollywood Freeway, and considerably less crowded.

Sea Getting Crowded

"But off-shore diving areas are beginning to feel the pinch of heavy traffic," he said. "I've counted more than 50 divers in the water off Catalina. It figures. The sea is the last real frontier on earth—much more important to our life than outer space."

"Some day there will be regular underwater rest chambers, restaurants and other places divers can visit."

Hall, who began his movie career in "Hurricane," has amassed a fortune from his exploits in the sea. The one great dry period in his life occurred when he starred in the TV series "Ramar of the Jungle," which Jan claims is now in its 20th re-run.

"So far I've shot nine sequences on the new series," he said. "Almost all of them are underwater. They will be ready for the new season next fall."

"What else do I like about spending so much time submerged? Well, girls always look prettier to me under water."

Private Schools Seek Accreditation

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The first steps have been taken toward obtaining state accreditation for the Little Rock Private School Corp.'s all-white high school here.

School Supt. W. C. Brashers revealed that yesterday along with an announcement that the school has been officially named the Thomas J. Ramey High School, Dr. Thomas J. Ramey is president of the corporation's board of directors.

Brashers said he had been in contact with officials of the state Department of Education and they promised to inspect the facility and facilities into this month or in January.

Brashers also was announced for the school's basketball team — the Rebels.

Brashers said students had a part in selection of both the school name and the team nickname.
